Policy Statement:

Milton Community Resource Centre (MCRC) is committed to respecting the privacy and confidentiality of donors, volunteers, staff, clients and website users, unless permission is obtained to release such information. These Organizational Privacy Policies cover Privacy of Personal Information, Confidentiality of Client Information, Donor Privacy and Privacy of Website Users.

Definitions:

- Personal Information: Includes any factual or subjective information in any form, which can directly or indirectly identify an individual. This includes, but is not limited to age, name, ID numbers, home address, home phone numbers, personal e-mail address, credit and bank records, donation information, income, ethnic origin, medical information etc. It does not include name, title or business address or telephone number, of an employee of an organization.

If there are any questions as to whether information is classified as personal please contact the Director, Human Resources at 905-876-1244 ext. 223.

1. Privacy of Personal Information:

In the normal course of providing services to the individuals who use them, the collection of personal information is required. In addition, MCRC must collect personal information from donors, volunteers, and staff who assist us in delivering these services.

Whether governed by legislation or not, MCRC takes seriously its obligations to treat all personal information with the utmost care and to protect the privacy and confidentiality of donors, volunteers, clients and staff.

Procedures:

Personal information will only be used for the purpose for which it was collected. If there is a need to use it for other reasons the organization will obtain specific written consent from the individual.

- The collection of personal information will be limited to what is essential.
- All reasonable efforts will be taken to protect from theft.
- All reasonable steps will be taken to protect personal information including the use of locked filing cabinets and password protection on electronic data bases.
- To protect against illegal harvesting of personal information, all necessary precautions will be taken to secure and backup personal information that is stored electronically.
- Personal information of others will not be provided to any employee, donor, volunteer, client or website user without explicit written permission of the individual whose information is being requested.
- Should an employee's Supervisor or Manager request information from an employee file, they will only be given information that is relevant to their question and will not be given the employee file; rather they will be provided with the information requested by Human Resources.

- Employees must not share personal information of others. Employees who receive requests from others' personal information will direct the person requesting the information to Human Resources.
- All employees will be given a copy of the Privacy Policy and confirmation that they have reviewed and understand the policy will be placed in their personnel file.
- When requested, individuals may have access to their personal information which the organization maintains, unless access to the information would likely reveal information about a third party. The organization will respond to the request for personal information within 30 days.
- When no longer required, personal information which has been collected will be destroyed and subject to any legislative requirements.
- It is important that all MCRC staff review and have available a copy of the Privacy Policy so that they can respond to any inquiries that they may receive related to the issues contained in it.

2. Confidentiality of Client Information:

Clients have the right to expect that their confidentiality will be protected and staff have a duty to uphold this expectation. Client records are confidential and staff may not discuss, or request, any information to or from an external person unless the client signs appropriate disclosure forms or exchange of information forms authorizing staff to do so.

Procedures:

- Files containing client information should be secured when they are not actively being used. Files are to be kept in a locked cabinet when the program is closed.
- Confidential client information is not to be taken outside of the program.
- Staff should be knowledgeable about their "duty to report" pertaining to Child Welfare and Protection.
- Staff, students and volunteers will not discuss private information in public spaces or anywhere information may be overheard.
- Staff members are not to agree to keep client information to themselves as a favour or condition to the information being shared.
- All information recorded about clients is to be done in a professional, non-judgemental manner with respect to client privacy. Staff members are not to add subjective notations.
- Staff members are not to disclose any personal information about themselves or others.
- Staff members have an obligation to report any violations of confidentiality to the Supervisor.

3. Donor Privacy

MCRC is committed to respecting the privacy of donors.

Procedures:

- All information concerning donors or prospective donors, including their names, addresses, telephone numbers, the names of their beneficiaries, the amount of their gift etc., shall be kept strictly confidential by MCRC, unless permission is obtained from donors to release such information.

- MCRC ensures that information about their donation is handled with respect and with confidentiality to the extent provided by law.
- MCRC does not sell, rent, exchange, or otherwise share its donor list.
- When making a donation, MCRC ensures donors will receive prompt, truthful and forthright answers.
- MCRC ensures donors' requests to remain anonymous are respected and recognizes that there are circumstances when anonymity cannot apply. Any donor records that are maintained by the organization will be kept confidential to the greatest extent possible. Donors have the right to see their own donor record, and to challenge its accuracy. Please see MCRC's Donor Anonymity Policy for detailed procedures on the protection of donor anonymity.

4. Privacy of Website Users

MCRC collects and uses personal information for the following purposes:

- To improve customer service: User information helps us to more effectively respond to customer service requests and support needs.
- To enable online registration: User information is essential to the functionality of the programs we offer.

MCRC adopts appropriate data collection, storage and processing practices and security measures to protect against unauthorized access, alteration, disclosure, or destruction of personal information, username, password, transaction information and data stored on our site.

MCRC does not sell, trade, or rent users personal identification to others. MCRC may share generic aggregated demographic information not linked to any personal identification information regarding visitors and users with business partners, trusted affiliates and advertisers for the purposes outlined above.

Users may find advertising or other content on the site that links to the sites and services of MCRC's partners, advertisers, sponsors and other third parties. MCRC does not control the content or links that appear on these sites and are not responsible for the practices employed by websites linked to or from the site. In addition, these sites or services, including their content and links, may be constantly changing. These sites and services may have their own privacy policies and customer service policies. Browsing and interaction on any other website, including websites which have a link to our site, is subject to the website's own terms and policies.

MCRC may collect personal identification information in a variety of ways, including, but not limited to when users visit our site, fill out a form, and in connection with other services, features, or resources on MCRC's website. Users may be asked for (for purposes of program registration): name, e-mail address, phone number, children's information etc. Users may, however, visit MCRC's site anonymously. We will collect personal identification information from users only if they voluntarily submit such information to us. Users can refuse to supply personal identification information, but it may prevent them from engaging in certain site related activities (ie. online registration).

MCRC may collect non-personal identification information about users whenever they interact with the site. Non-personal identification information may include the browser name, the type of computer and technical information about users means of connection to the site, such as the operating system and the internet service providers' utilized and other similar information. It is important to note that the user's identity remains anonymous.

Our Site may use “cookies” to enhance User experience. Cookies are small files that your web browser saves to make it easier for you to access pages. You can choose to disable cookies in your individual browser preferences. If you do, note that some parts of the Site may not function properly.
